Midway Chatter

It rained Monday and, for a change, nobody at the Pickaway County Fair seemed to care. The area needs the rain so badly. But yesterday's shower did little more than settle the dust. It was not enough to make the grass greener or to help the crops.

Don't forget the horse races today and Wednesday. Post time is 4:30 p.m. Today's race card includes seven races, to be run in two heats each. Purses today total $7,152. The Pickaway County Fair receives the funds from the Ohio State Fair Fund to pay the purses in the harness races. The fair board is therefore able to provide an excellent program at no financial risk. Grandstand receipts and the money from the sale of programs stays at the Pickaway County Fair.

The grandstand program tonight is WNRE Night. Action Wednesday includes the junior fair beef show, home economics food judging, flower show, tractor pull at noon, harness racing, pet parade, tractor pull again at 7 p.m.

There was a good response to the Open Barrow Show held Monday. Charles Andrews Jr., judge of the show, complimented the fair and the Pickaway County Pork Council for the show, noting that it is "excellent publicity for the pork industry." Andrews is the vocational agriculture teacher at Miami Trace High School. He is associated with Andrews and Baughm Swine Farm of Bloomingburg.

Stop in and see the FFA hay and grain display in the fruit, vegetable and grain building.

Storms Rip Ohio Valley, Northeast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Violent weather that laced the Northeast and Ohio Valley moved out to sea today, but showers lingered from the Middle Atlantic Coast northward.

Severe thunderstorms dumped more than 2 inches of rain on Glens Falls, N.Y., and between 1 and 2 inches soaked Albany, N.Y., and Harrisburg and Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Monday night.

In a 10-minute period late Monday an inch of rain accompanied by hail fell on an area between Steubenville, Ohio, and Wheeling, W.Va.

Wind damaged parts of South McKeesport, Pa., and the Maryland communities of Hagerstown, Berwyn and Cheverly. Tornadoes were sighted at Bealsville, Pa., and Grantsville, Md.

An isolated thunderstorm dropped walnut-size hail on Jacksonville, Ark., late Monday.

Rain fell along the northern and Middle Atlantic Coast, through the southern Plains and from the northern Rockies to the southern Plateau. Low clouds and fog hid most of the Pacific Coast in the early morning hours.

The rest of the nation had fair weather.

Set Turnover Of 20 Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman said today President Nixon's Watergate defense lawyer, James D. St. Clair, was ready to meet an afternoon deadline for surrendering the first batch of 20 tapes of presidential conversations to U.S. District Judge John D. Sirica.

Nixon and St. Clair spent much of Monday afternoon reviewing the materials, being surrendered in accord with last Wednesday's Supreme Court ruling that the tapes are needed by special prosecutor Leon Jaworski for a Watergate cover-up trial scheduled to begin Sept. 9.

St. Clair had until 4 p.m. EDT to turn over the originals of 20 tapes to Sirica, who will study them to determine what portions are relevant for Jaworski's purpose. Under the court ruling, tapes and memoranda covering an additional 44 presidential conversations must be provided later.

ROUNDTOWN

Turkey Proposes New Peace Plan In Cyprus Fight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Turkey offered new proposals to the three-power Cyprus peace talks in Geneva today, bringing a new surge of hope that the crucial issue of Turkish troop withdrawals was nearing a compromise solution.

The new Turkish proposals came after Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger conferred long-distance from Washington with Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit in Ankara, Turkish sources said.

Members of the Greek delegation, who voiced deep pessimism Monday night, told newsmen the atmosphere had brightened at the outset of the sixth day of tough bargaining in Geneva.

A British source said an overnight pause for reflection had "opened up new areas for maneuvering" by negotiators in Geneva.

British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan met first this morning with Greek Foreign Minister George Mavros and a half hour later with Turkish Foreign Minister Turan Guner.

Then the three ministers got together at Callaghan's office in Geneva's Palace of Nations. Their military advisers were summoned to join them later this afternoon, indicating the negotiations were going from the stage of generalizations to the specific technical questions involved in a disengagement of Greek Cypriot and Turkish forces on Cyprus.

Turkey now has more than 20,000 troops on Cyprus; they are opposed by the remnants of the 11,000-man Greek Cypriot National Guard and 30,000-40,000 reservists, plus a Greek army detachment of about 1,000 men. The Turks are occupying a 200-square-mile corridor from the Turkish sector of Nicosia, the capital, to a 15-mile beachhead on the northern coast including the city of Kyrenia.

Military observers said small units from each side were making forays across each other's lines, but this was normal in any cease-fire situation until terms for a permanent truce were settled.

The Turks meanwhile unloaded more troops and military equipment at Kyrenia.

Turkish troops were reported turning back United Nations convoys of food for Greek Cypriot refugees in some areas, and Turkish Cypriots charged that U. N. forces were discriminating in favor of the Greek Cypriots.

U. N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said the Turkish commander on Cyprus had asked for the withdrawal of U.N. peacekeeping troops from the territory the Turks occupied. Waldheim said he telephoned Ecevit about the matter, and the premier was checking with the commander.

The Soviet Union submitted a resolution to the U.N. Security Council calling "for speedy withdrawal of all foreign forces" on Cyprus. But the Greek troops were the only ones the Russians mentioned by name. The resolution also said a representative of ousted President Makarios should be invited to the Geneva talks.

Makarios was scheduled to fly from New York to London today.

Impeachment Call Mounts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's failure to comply with House Judiciary Committee subpoenas will be the basis for a third article of impeachment the committee is expected to approve.

Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., sponsor of the article, predicts it will be adopted by a 22-16 margin. There also is a chance a fourth article based on Nixon's personal finances will be approved.

Today's meeting, which could wind up the committee's long impeachment proceedings, begins at 10:30 a.m. EDT., broadcast nationally on television and radio.

The committee climaxed a 12-hour session Monday night by voting 28-10 in favor of an article charging Nixon with violations of his oath of office and his constitutional duties.

Seven Republicans joined the 21 committee Democrats in support of the article, which many of them judged to be stronger than the obstruction of justice article approved Saturday, 27-11.

"Just as a consistent abuse of power holds more danger for the republic than a single criminal act, so is this a far more serious charge than in the article already adopted," said Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan R-Md., a misleading supporter of Article II.

Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., called the committee's action "a victory for justice" and said history may compare it to the challenge of the English barons that led to the signing of the Magna Carta in 1215, a milestone in the growth of political liberty in England.

President Nixon's supporters on the panel viewed the proceedings darkly. "I'm deeply concerned for the future of the presidency," said Rep. Delbert L. Latta, R-Ohio.

Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif.,

said the committee was taking a step toward parliamentary government by basing impeachment on so vague a charge as abuse of presidential power.

But the Democrats and Republicans supporting the article said the offenses charged against Nixon were so serious they threatened the freedom of the American people.

Article II is based on the oath a President takes to faithfully execute his office and to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution, and on the duty the Constitution imposes on him to see that the laws are faithfully executed.

It charges Nixon with violating both his oath and his constitutional duties by misusing the Internal Revenue Service, authorizing illegal wiretaps, establishing a secret investigative unit in the White House that engaged in unlawful activities and interfering with investigations of the Watergate break-in and cover-up.

"We came perilously close to losing our basic freedoms," said Rep. Paul S. Sarbanes, D-Md., in a final round of debate before the vote. "And it is for that reason we must act affirmatively tonight."

During the long day and night of debate on the article, Nixon's supporters insisted there either was no evidence linking the President to the illegal acts charged, or that the acts were justified by national security considerations.

The article covers acts by Nixon's subordinates, as well as his own, a provision challenged by Wiggins as attempting to hold Nixon responsible for the misdeeds of others.

But McClory, citing the score of former White House and Nixon reelection campaign officials either in prison or under indictment, said Nixon could not escape responsibility.

"A President can only act through his subordinates," McClory said. "The question is, is he tolerating, has he tolerated this kind of conduct in and around the White House?"

Much of the debate centered on the establishment of the plumbers investigative unit in the White House, which Nixon's defenders said was entirely justified by national security concerns caused by Daniel Ellsberg's leaking of the Pentagon Papers.

Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., said that between the administration's wiretapping of private citizens and the operations of the plumbers unit, "the Nixon White House made the secret police a reality in the United States."

The third article to be proposed also is based on Nixon's oath of office and constitutional requirement to see that the laws are faithfully executed.

It states that he "has failed without lawful cause or excuse to produce papers and things as directed by duly authorized subpoenas ..." The committee issued eight subpoenas calling for tapes of 147 conversations. It received edited transcripts of 42 conversations.

McClory's proposed article says by refusing to honor the subpoenas, Nixon was undermining the constitutional process of impeachment.

Only McClory and Hogan among the Republicans are expected to support the proposed article, and at least one Democrat, Rep. Walter Flowers, D-Ala., has said he would vote against it.

The fourth proposed article will be offered by Rep. Edward Mezvinsky, D-Iowa, and will make two charges:

—That Nixon unlawfully received compensation in the form of government expenditures on his privately-owned properties at San Clemente, Calif., and Key Biscayne, Fla.

—That he failed to report certain income and claimed deductions on his federal income taxes returns for the years 1969-72 not authorized by law.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Inflation worries kept the stock market in retreat today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 4.54 at 766.35, and losers maintained a 3-2 edge on gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said concern over the recent upsurge in commodity prices continued to set a negative tone for the market, smothering a weak attempt at a technical rally as trading opened.

Clorox was the most active NYSE issue, unchanged at 9. A 147,000-share block of the stock traded at 9 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .33 at 78.80.

General Motors skidded 1 1/2 to 41 1/2, its lowest price in more than a decade.

The pattern among glimmers was mixed. Burroughs was down 1 1/2 at 90 1/2 and Merck lost a point to 67 1/2, but Polaroid was up 1 at 27 3/4 and IBM inched up 1/2 to 203 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index of nearly 1,500 common stocks was down .23 at 42.18.

The Amex volume leader was Syntex, down 3/4 at 37 1/2.

Kissinger Meets Israeli Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — A renewed U.S. diplomatic effort for additional progress in Middle East peace negotiations is opening with a meeting between Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon.

Today's afternoon session will be the first of a series Kissinger expects to hold with key Israeli and Arab leaders over the next month.

The idea is to define the issues as seen by all sides to work out a formula to carry Israel and the Arabs beyond the current cease-fire and limited troop disengagement agreements.

In today's talks, for instance, Kissinger and Allon will go over options regarding possible disengagement with Jordan, a further troop separation between Israel and Egypt, the opening of the Geneva peace conference, the status of Palestinian Arabs and the American aid program to the Jewish state.

U.S. officials say Kissinger will not press any specific ideas on what he feels should happen but will urge Allon to examine all possibilities with the aim of establishing optimum flexibility.

Dan Rowan's Wife Sues For Divorce

Fire Destroys Truck

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Deal is continuing the investigation of the possibility of two vehicles being stolen when one was destroyed by fire early Monday morning.

According to Deputy Deal's report, the subjects were observed parking the pickup truck and auto in a corn field, by a neighbor, who thought the subjects were going to steal some corn or cattle.

Arriving on the scene, Deal found the truck completely engulfed in flames and nobody around. The Laurelville and Saltcreek Township Fire Departments responded extinguishing the fire.

Deal observed two five-gallon gasoline cans around the truck where the fire had apparently been set, and through further searching found two boxes of tools and four five-gallon cans of gasoline in the bed of the truck.

The unknown arsons had also rubbed out the truck's serial number.

The automobile was partially dismantled, but had not been set on fire.

Entry was gained to the auto, which was apparently stolen, by breaking the wing window.

Hocking and Ross County Sheriff Authorities assisted Deal in searching the area for the offenders.

Computerized Food Pricing Tried Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Those funny little lines on cans of peas, soup and other grocery items are the signal for a new marketing technique that store officials claim will save money and time for shoppers and the industry. Consumers aren't sure how well it will work.

Supermarkets are just starting to try the system on a limited basis. It's called the Universal Product Code and involves the use of a scanner and computer designed to speed things up at the checkout counter and cut down on human errors.

The Marsh Store at the Sherwood Shopping Center in Troy, Ohio, has been using the code system since June 28 and spokesman Steve Overmyer said Monday that initial reaction had been "just fantastic." He conceded that there were "a few little bugs here and there, but nothing like the problems we anticipated."

Some 1,700 manufacturers, with annual grocery sales of $69 billion, are planning to implement the system. They're members of a trade association called the Uniform Grocery Product Code Council.

Here's how the system works: The different sized lines are imprinted on a can or box by the manufacturer. A spokesman for Distribution Codes Inc. of Washington, D.C., which developed the system, explained that the lines really are called a "machine readable symbol linear bar type."

Some of the lines stand for the name of the manufacturer and the type of product. The rest represent the price.

It's up to the individual supermarket to set the price by feeding information into a computer. It might tell the computer that a specific combination of lines means 29 cents, for example.

If an item is not marked with the code—either because the manufacturer has not imprinted it or because the product is something like meat that varies in price according to weight—the store can stamp on its own symbol with an in-store printer.

The customer takes the product to the checkout counter where it passes by an electronic scanner which "reads" the lines and asks the computer what the price is. The computer's reply flashes up on a screen and is noted on the cash register.

Shoppers still will get a supermarket tape—including not only the price, but the name of each item, represented by what's known as a 12-character alpha description. That means the description of the product can't be more than 12 letters.

Consumer opposition stems from industry plans to ultimately eliminate price tags on individual items entirely. The price would be posted on the shelf above or below an item, but wouldn't be stamped on the product itself.

Shoppers say such a system wouldn't work. They point out that in cities where unit pricing is in effect—requiring stores to post the price of an item per pound or other standard unit—the shelf signs often get mixed up, are out of date or aren't big enough.

Legalized Prostitution Urged By Bar Association Panel

CHICAGO (AP) — Laws against prostitution are blatantly discriminatory against women, invade individual privacy and should be dropped from state books, a committee of the American Bar Association recommends.

The recommendation is in a report that calls for the adoption of a resolution which urges states to "repeal all laws which classify as criminal prostitution or solicitation by or on behalf of a prostitute."

The resolution is to be considered by the ABA's House of Delegates at its annual meeting in August. Approval of the resolution by the full House and the ABA's Board of Governors will provide guidance to state bars and other lobbying groups before state legislatures.

The committee says there is no reason for a state to outlaw "commercial sex."

"Whether a person chooses to engage in sexual intercourse for pure recreation, or in exchange for something of value, is a matter of individual choice, not for governmental interference," the report states. Decriminalization could lead to a reduction of crime associated with prostitution, it says.

Carole Bellows, a Chicago lawyer and vice chairman of the committee that approved the resolution, said the rise of the liberated woman, expanding notions about the right of privacy and a growing concern about so-called victimless crimes contributed to the committee's unanimous approval of the report at a meeting of its 20 members in May.

A primary reason for the committee's action was the discriminatory nature of statutes outlawing prostitution.

"In accordance with society's double standard of sexual morality, the woman who sells her body is punished criminally and stigmatized socially while her male customer, either by the explicit design of the statute or through a pattern of discriminatory enforcement, is left unscathed," the report states.

It says that in most states the law ignores the fact that male homosexuals can be prostitutes and "more importantly, that male customers, without whom prostitution would be impossible, are accomplices in this so-called criminal act."

It also calls for the decriminalization of solicitation to prostitution, saying such a law discriminates against poor and minority women who must operate in the streets in contrast to call girls who operate out of plush hotel suites.

The report was approved by the ABA's Section of Individual Rights and Responsibilities, headed by Albert E. Jenner Jr., Chicago lawyer now serving as counsel to the House Judiciary Committee considering articles of impeachment.

Jenner was chairman of the meeting in May and did not vote on the resolution, said Miss Bellows.

The ABA House of Delegates the past two years has acted favorably on recommendations from the same committee calling for the decriminalization of homosexual activity and the use of marijuana.

Viet Fight Continues

SAIGON (AP) — Heavy fighting along the northern coast of South Vietnam below Da Nang continued for the 14th day today, the Saigon command reported.

The command claimed 113 North Vietnamese were killed in clashes around besieged Dai Loc and Duc Duc, besieged district towns within 20 miles of Da Nang. Five government troops were killed and 32 were wounded, the command said.

Other military sources said 500 or more government troops were believed to be missing after the North Vietnamese on Monday overran seven outposts around Thuong Duc, a third besieged district town 20 miles southwest of Da Nang.

The Communists also pounded Thuong Duc with more than 1,000 rocket, artillery and mortar shells.

In Cambodia, government troops after battling all afternoon Monday linked up with an isolated bridge outpost 10 miles north of Phnom Penh on the road to Muk Kampul, a district town that the Khmer Rouge insurgents have surrounded and are shelling.

Set Hearing On Ouster Of Member

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—U. S. District Judge Leroy J. Contie Jr. has set a hearing for Friday on a preliminary injunction to prevent the removal of Don R. Gosney from the Columbiana County Board of Elections.

A temporary restraining order in favor of Gosney was issued by the judge last Thursday.

Gosney, who is the Columbiana County Democratic party chairman, filed suit in U. S. District Court last week challenging the constitutionality of an Ohio law that gives the secretary of state discretionary power over board of elections appointments.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown refused to reappoint Gosney to the Columbiana County board last February, saying his board post conflicted with his position as administrative assistant to U. S. Rep. Wayne Hays, a Democrat from Flushing, Ohio.

The Ohio Supreme Court upheld Brown's decision by a 4-3 vote July 17 and Gosney took his challenge to federal court.

The Supreme Court said that while Brown's action reflected his personal views, he was within his authority in determining that Gosney would not be a competent member of the board of elections.

Motorcycle Deaths Prove Worrisome

NEW YORK (AP)—The 40-year old executive who finally persuaded his wife last Christmas to let him buy a motorcycle because "we'll save on gas" may have been playing a deadly game.

In fact, by now he could be one of the 675 persons who lost their lives on motorcycles on the nation's highways through the first four months of 1974, according to National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates.

Although the returns are early, motorcycle deaths to date are running more than 30 per cent ahead of 1973, in sharp contrast to a 23.8 per cent decline this year in over-all traffic deaths.

Running side by side with the higher motorcycle death figures are dramatically higher cycle sales. The Motorcycle Industry Council, a Washington-based lobby group, estimates motorcycle sales have jumped about 50 per cent so far this year to roughly 700,000 to 750,000 new vehicles.

Added to the 4,222,000 motorcycles the Department of Transportation estimates were on the road at the end of 1973, the total cycle population now stands near five million, and is growing this year at a 32 per cent annual clip.

The fatality figures so far in 1974 are alarming, since in all but one of the last 10 years, the council says, there was a downturn in the ratio of motorcycle deaths to vehicle registrations.

One explanation, according to Bob Hicks, publisher of Cycle Sport magazine, is that the energy crisis gave many nonteen-age, middle class persons with little or no cycling know-how the excuse they'd been looking for "to get their courage up and do what they wanted to do in the first place."

Ad campaigns by some cycle makers stressing the new image of respectability and fuel economy helped to persuade the wife to go along with a motorcycle, Hicks said.

"The real reason these older guys started buying bikes this year, according to dealers I speak to, is they now had an excuse from the sad state of the economy to do what they wanted to do in the first place. It's machismo. Suddenly, they can ride to work on a cycle and get away with it."

The problem is, these people who hop on a bike without proper training are statistically the most likely to get killed, according to numerous government and university

A Page Of Opinion

Grain Bottleneck

While the United States awaits the results of its record grain harvest with anticipation and some unease, farmers in Argentina are wondering how much of their already-harvested crop will soil for lack of transportation.

Argentina, along with Australia, the United States and Canada, is one of the world's major grain producers. Its harvests of wheat and sorghum this year are believed to be records.

But because of an acute shortage of available rail cars, a large part of the harvest is waiting, sometimes for weeks, to be moved. Throughout Argentina all available silos are filled, vacant buildings have been filled with grain, and still there are small mountains of it in fields and along railroad tracks.

World demand, along with western production, is expected to reach record highs this year. The producing countries are cooperating to meet the demand, but the bottleneck in Argentina is similar to those which have appeared elsewhere to prevent badly needed foodstuffs from reaching their destinations.

India, which is a perpetual importer of grain, also has a perpetual distribution problem moving the grain from the docks inland to settlements where starvation is high. Even the United States experienced a gigantic freight car tie-up at the height of the mammoth Soviet wheat sale.

A poor distribution system can cripple food availability as surely as inability to produce. Production and distribution are essential parts of the same team.

Sea Venture's Adventure

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

ABOARD M-S SEA VENTURE, HAMILTON, BERMUDA — This sparkling white cruise ship has not as yet been awarded the VVictoria Cross, but that takes time. Only four months have passed since she (the Sea Venture, not Victoria) saved the Queen Elizabeth 2 from a fate which Lord Nelson would have judged worse than death—humility on the high seas.

Bjorn Vaage, the handsome young master of the Sea Venture, and chief engineer Hans Iversen, who played roles in what later was certificated as "an unusual event on the high seas," told us today what it was like when a cruise ship, many of whose passengers were sight-seeing ashore, went to the aid of the world's most famous ship, the QE-2, dead in the water 214 miles south by southwest of Bermuda.

QE-2, with 1,654 passengers aboard, mostly Americans and Canadians, was suffering from what a landlubber might call a bleeding ulcer. Oil had somehow gotten mixed into the water that is pumped into the boilers that make the steam that turns the turbines that spin the propellers. That produced too much heat and all three boilers had to be shut down. The powerless giant lay there like a stunned whale, in, fortunately, gentle seas. In rough seas, or fire, there might have been a great marine disaster.

Spirits remained high, however. Someone remembered a problem the QE-2 had had on her shakedown cruise a few years ago when she suffered a similar fainting spell. The bullhorn had come on with an announcement that could have been uttered only by a proper British purser. He said, "Will Mr. Jones or anyone, repeat anyone, who knows how to turn off dishwashing machinery please report to the kitchen?" (Which ranks with the scene at the rail of the Titanic when a proper mother, lifting her child into a lifeboat as the ice-disemboweled "safest ship in the world" settled in the water, said, "Drat. Wouldn't this happen when he didn't have his nanny with us.")

"We were docked here at Hamilton when we got our orders to go to the help of the QE-2," Vaage told us in his roomy quarters, with the sound of his children's laughter coming from a neighboring room. "The representative of the local Cunard office came aboard to tell us what we already knew, from the radio, that we were the nearest ship to the QE-2. There was soon a running dialogue among London, New York, and our owner, Oivind Lorentzen, in Oslo. Our master at that time, Captain Torbjorn Hauge, and I, then staff captain, got in touch by phone with our good friend Captain Peter Jackson, master of the QE-2.

"He didn't go in for any dramatics, of course. He's British. But we detected that the situation with him was getting pretty bad. So we prepared to go out to him. But first we had to do something about our own passengers, more than 600 of them. Some were ashore and not able to be reached. We announced to the owners that we could get them lodging ashore, while we were gone, or they could come along if they wished. Some 202 volunteered to stay with us.

"We stopped just long enough at St. George's to pick up the seven Cunard people who had been flown over from London, including their chief engineer who had been found somewhere on vacation. As we put out again, two of our passengers were lying on a beach not far away dozing in the sun. The lady opened her eyes and said, 'There's a ship leaving. It looks like ours.' Her husband said, 'Nonsense, go back to sleep. We don't leave for two more days.' But he opened an eye, just in case, then shouted, 'Good God. It's the Sea Venture all right.' They didn't have a penny with them.

"We had brought along a lot of things the QE-2 told us she needed: tow cable, fuel for her emergency systems that operated such things as her lighting and her toilets, 200 pounds of bread, 150 pounds of chicken, 260 pounds of ham, 250 quarts of milk, ropes, whatnot.

"We picked her up on radar 25 miles away and moved in to 250 yards. By all means we must not bump at sea. We have four of the finest tenders ever built — they were built in Bergen,

Norway, by the Bjorke Batbyggeri people. They took care of the whole transfer job. First they went to the side of the QE-2 and brought us 20 inflatable rubber rafts and a thousand life jackets, in case anything happened to us on the way back — with all those new passengers on board. Then the people. Senior citizens first — 815 of them, each permitted to bring a suitcase and a hand bag. We did the whole job in six hours, with only two injuries, a passenger's bruised ankle, the broken wrist of a crew member.

"There were some tears when we brought them aboard. But within an hour after our overnight trip back to Hamilton began, well, you never saw anything like it. We kept all the bars going all night—free, of course—and buffet tables loaded all over the ship. We found 700 beds, thanks to our crew and some of the passengers doubling and tripling up, and put the rest of the people in deck chairs or on cots in our public rooms.

"We pulled back into Hamilton at dawn. Three jumbo jets were waiting at the airport to take the QE-2 people to New York. There was a line of 100 cabs, probably every cab in Bermuda, to shuttle them to the airport."

Capt Vaage sighed. "It was indeed an 'unusual event,'" he said. "And you know something? The people who took it most in stride, who stayed more cheerful throughout the whole thing, were the senior citizens."

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

DEAR EDITOR:

Through inadequate planning and an over-emphasis of the profit motive, 20 to 30 4-H boys and girls were nearly denied necessary stall facilities to participate in their horse show. In spite of the plethora of preparations the past eight weeks which incorporated three pre-shows with all the responsibilities of procuring judges and sponsors to operate these shows, proposals were made to alter show dates and vacate stalls. The boys and girls suffered untold mental anguish at the possibility of having the more financially lucrative race horses deprive them of entire barns.

Many people believe that now is the time for the Pickaway County Fair Board to question their motives in scheduling and organizing fair events. Is our county fair organized for the benefit of local people who work and support it year around or for the benefit of race horse owners? If our fair board is representative of our county and had knowledge of the influx of races, why haven't they made the provisions for this growth?

These officials have had the necessary information and time to provide the needed facilities and orderly procedures to execute a well-organized and smooth running fair.

Why, then, this last minute confusion that will serve only to create dissention and hard feelings for years to come? With the land available and the potential of adequate financing, why is our fairgrounds in the present inadequate state in its provision for horses?

Members of the Pickaway County Fair Board make note of this and do something about the deplorable condition and number of barns and stalls available for tax paying citizens in which to keep their horses.

At a meeting Saturday of fairboard members, 4-H Extension Service, 4-H advisers and parents a decision was reached to rent portable stalls for the harness horses. The 4-H members will continue to use the barns at the rear of the track built for that purpose.

Fairboard members are elected by members of the Pickaway County Agricultural Society. A $1 membership fee gives citizens of the county privileges of the society and the right to vote for fair board members. We urge people with interests at the fair to become active participants in the agriculture society.

"You got 'em!!"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My husband and I each have a child by a previous marriage. I am 36-years-old and would like to have a child of our own. He feels it is so dangerous that he avoids any discussion of it. Do you agree with this?

Mrs. A.N., N.J.

Dear Mrs. N.:

There are two aspects to your problem that are obvious to me. The first is the possibility that your husband avoids any discussion because he may not be enthusiastic about the idea of having another child. It may be that he is using the possibility of danger as a subtle way of not admitting his real feelings.

The second is that a woman of your age who is in good health need not feel threatened by any special dangers in giving birth to another baby. The fact that you already have had one minimizes the hazards.

There need be no guesswork about safety. A physical examination by your doctor or gynecologist will answer any fears either one of you may have about a possible pregnancy.

A discussion with your doctor may also reveal hidden anxieties that your husband may have about the start of a "new family" at his age.

Southern Democrats Falling Away From Support Of Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many House Southern Democrats, a group crucial to President Nixon's hopes of avoiding impeachment, appear prepared to follow their three Judiciary Committee colleagues into the proimpeachment camp.

Interviews with a dozen Southern Democrats, representing a cross-section of the 74 from the 11 states of the Old Confederacy, and estimates of experienced House head-counters indicate Nixon may hold barely half of them.

With most of the 174 Northern and Western Democrats expected to vote for impeachment, that means the President would have to hold almost all of the 187 House Republicans, a difficult task after six of 17 Republicans on the Judiciary panel voted for impeachment.

Thus, the decline in the President's southern flank is a major factor in the growing belief of House leaders that Nixon will be impeached.

Even among the more conservative, older Southern Democrats, solid backers of Nixon on most legislative matters, there has been a perceptible decline in the President's support.

Few, even likely Nixon backers, are willing to say for sure they will oppose the impeachment move.

"I don't want to vote for impeachment," said Rep. Joe D.

Our two-year-old son is cross-eyed. I notice this when he is tired. Do children outgrow this? At what age should he be examined by a specialist?

Mrs. G.B., Mont.

Dear Mrs. B.:

The age at which a child should be examined for any unusual problem is at the time the parents first recognize it.

Newborn children very often seem to have crossed eyes because they have not developed full coordination. This quickly disappears.

But a two-year-old child should be examined to determine the cause, and a way of correcting the problem. Delaying medical attention in the hope that the child will outgrow the condition is wishful thinking, but poor medicine.

There are many techniques for correcting weak muscles. Special exercises and corrective lenses are helpful. Also, visual training techniques can strengthen weak muscles.

Surgery is the method of choice when all other techniques have been tried. It is most important that young children have the problem of cross-eyes corrected before they are embarrassed by playmates.

Letters To The Editor

Waggoner, D-La., one of the acknowledged leaders of the conservative Southerners. But he declined to say how he would vote and noted, "I have made no irrevocable statement."

"I think he's made plenty of mistakes," said Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., chairman of the House Democratic Caucus. But he indicated he too, was reluctant to vote for impeachment.

But Teague, a 28-year veteran, and Waggoner, a House member more than 12 years, represent an older style of Southerner. Of the 74 Southern Democrats, 40 have been in Congress less than 10 years.

Surveys indicate that increasingly the younger Southern Democrats vote more like their northern cousins. A survey by the liberal Americans for Democratic Action showed that 16 freshmen Southern Democrats voted 48 per cent "liberal" in 1973, compared with 35 per cent for all Southerners.

Rep. Lindy Boggs, D-La., who succeeded her late husband, House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs in a New Orleans district, offered one clue to the way impeachment might be affected by southern sentiment.

"On a vote on a purely constitutional issue, when you are in a quasi-judicial position, you have the obligation first of upholding the Constitution."

Beach, Learning Session Combined At Crane Creek

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ohio has 62 state parks, but most Ohioans are familiar with only a few of the parks and the opportunities for outdoor recreation that they offer. This is one of a series of stories designed to make Ohioans more aware of what their state parks have to offer.

A visit to Crane Creek State Park and the adjoining Magee Marsh Wildlife Area provides the opportunity to combine an outing at the beach with an environmental learning session.

The 2,600-acre area, managed by the Department of Natural Resources' divisions of wildlife and parks and recreation, is on the shore of Lake Erie in eastern Lucas and western Ottawa counties.

The 72-acre park consists of a 3,000-foot beach and swimming area. The beach is backed by an area generously sprinkled with picnic tables and grills for cooking.

The length of the beach has been shortened considerably in recent years due to the all-time high levels of Lake Erie, but it remains a popular summertime spot.

"Most of our visitors are from the surrounding counties and are familiar with the area," says park manager Bill Woodworth. "We get a lot of local school groups coming out to visit the bird center and picnic on the lakefront beach."

The Sportsmen Migratory Bird Center, a unique attraction on the Magee Marsh Wildlife Area, is an impressive two-story structure of heavy timber post and beam construction which houses a lounge area, duck club and habitat display area and has observation decks offering a view of the surrounding marsh area.

The bird center "introduces visitors to natural history and conservation principles of Ohio's marsh environment."

Displays include a complete waterfowl decoy collection as well as duck boats and other equipment used in duck hunting.

In addition to a display of migratory birds such as woodducks, mergansers, Wilson's snipe and herons, there are mounted hawks, owls, and bald eagles.

Other wildlife on display include squirrel, fox, weasel, opossum, woodchuck, raccoon, skunk, muskrat, and deer, and many songbirds and other bird species.

Also shown are a variety of fish species, including largemouth bass, crappie, yellow perch, sunfish, channel catfish, and bowfin.

The center is open seven days a week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 to 5 on Saturday and Sunday. Visitors should plan on taking at least two hours for a tour of the center.

The prairie-marsh zone which makes up the park and wildlife area and the adjacent Ottawa National Wildlife Refuge is used extensively by migratory waterfowl in both the spring and fall migrating periods.

Division of wildlife biologists have reported concentrations exceeding 100,000 birds in the area for brief stints during the peak migrating periods.

The area supports a local Canada goose population of 2,500, which is considered significant because the giant Canada geese had been virtually nonexistent in the area for a number of years.

Most of the state's wetlands ecology research on migratory birds and other wildlife is done at Crane Creek Wildlife Experiment Station on the wildlife area. The experiment station is responsible for statewide waterfowl research and management, marsh management, wetlands habitat development and studies involving fur-bearing animals.

VISITING CANADIANS—These Canada geese are very much at home at Magee Marsh Wildlife Area next to Crane Creek State Park in Lucas and Ottawa counties. The wildlife area allows visitors to see some of the estimated 2,500 Canada geese which visit the marsh in addition to other birds like the whistling swan. More than 100,000 birds have been in the marsh at one time during peak migrating periods.

One of the most impressive sights of the year at Magee Marsh is in mid-March when flocks of migrating whistling swan stop there enroute to Arctic breeding grounds.

Whistling swan, majestic white birds with black bills, are the largest waterfowl to migrate through Ohio. Sometimes as many as 5,000 are at Magee Marsh at one time.

The annual Spring visit of the birds became such a popular event that Gov. John J. Gilligan has designated a Whistling Swan Day in Ohio the last two years.

"Wildlife areas such as Magee Marsh provide not only education, but also conservation and recreation," Gilligan said in proclaiming Whistling Swan Day earlier this year.

"They insure that our children and our children's children will be able to enjoy the wonders of nature, and are excellent examples of Ohio's efforts to preserve valuable wildlife habitat."

Because of the high levels of Lake Erie, much of Magee Marsh's 27-mile eroded dike system has been damaged, making it necessary to repair and maintain about 71,700 lineal feet of inner dikes and 8,100 feet of the outer dike along Lake Erie.

The extensive repair work will include placing limestone rip-rap along both sides of the inner dikes and heavier rip-rap consisting of stones weighing as much as 2,000 pounds each on the outer slope of the dike along the lake.

The Department of Natural Resources' engineering division is doing the work, which will be spread over several years because of the cost.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q.) I hired a baby sitter to take care of my child while I went out looking for a job. Is this expense deductible?

(A.) Yes. A person may deduct child care expenses incurred while in the actual search for gainful employment as well as those incurred while working. For details on the limitations applicable to the child care deduction, see IRS Publication 503, "Child Care and Disabled Dependent Care." It's available free from your IRS office.

(Q.) I paid $50 to attend a dinner to raise funds for a political candidate. Is the entire cost of the ticket deductible or do I have to subtract the value of the meal to arrive at my deduction.

(A.) The entire cost of the ticket to the political dinner is eligible for a deduction or credit if the dinner is clearly in the context of a campaign of an eligible candidate and is not primarily a device to confer private benefit in the form of meals or entertainment to the contributor. Otherwise, the contribution includes only the excess of the amount paid over the fair market value of the meal and entertainment.

Qualified political contributions may be deducted up to $50, ($100 if married filing jointly) or one half may be taken as a credit against your tax up to $12.50 ($25 if married filing jointly).

(Q.) How do you report dividends received on mutual fund shares?

(A.) It all depends on the type of dividend you receive from the fund. Ordinary dividends or taxable dividends are the most common type and any dividends you receive can be assumed to be an ordinary dividend unless the fund indicates otherwise. Except for the first $100 of such dividends which generally may be excluded from income, ordinary dividends are fully taxable.

Some funds distribute capital gain dividends. These are treated as long term capital gains and are taxed at a more favorable rate than ordinary dividends. However, these capital gain dividends do not qualify for the $100 dividend exclusion.

A fund distribution not out of earnings and profits is not taxed. It is a return of your investment, or capital, in stock of the mutual fund. A mutual fund will notify you on Form 1099DIV or by written notice as to the amount of gross dividends, capital gain dividends, return of capital, etc. that you must report on your income tax return.

For more details, see IRS Publication 564, "Tax Information on Mutual Fund Distributions." It's available free from your IRS office.

(Q.) Can condominium owners deduct amounts paid for real estate taxes and mortgage interest?

(A.) Yes. If you itemize deductions on Schedule A (Form 1040), such payments are deductible.

The bodice featured a Sabrina neckline, a peau bow at the waistline and fitted sleeves ending in bridal points over her hands. The bride's elbow length veil of illusion was held by a lace and pearl trimmed band. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow and white carnations and baby's breath.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Still Gives Thrills

DEAR ABBY: That wife who griped because her husband came back home in an amorous mood after driving the kids to school ought to have her head examined. (She said that was no time for love-making.)

What better time? No kids to worry about, make all the noise you want, and have a ball!

The other morning, my husband kissed me goodbye at the door before going to work. I responded with an affectionate bear hug. Two minutes later, as I was pouring myself another cup of coffee, here comes old Romeo back again, grinning.

He was a little late for the office that morning, but so what? I'm thrilled that he can still get that excited about me after 29 years. He's 69, and I'm 53.

LUCKY ME

DEAR ABBY: A wife complains that her husband comes home after he takes the kids to school, expecting her to make the bedroom scene with him. And the dummy is annoyed yet, because she has housework to do!

Your advice: "The housework will keep. Shoot the ducks while they're flying," was right on target.

The season never closes on ducks here. And no non-resident permits allowed.

J.E.J., MANHATTAN BEACH, CAL.

DEAR ABBY: Recently we invited some friends to dinner. I'll call them "Mr. and Mrs. X." Our TV was on before they arrived because we had been watching it before they drove up.

Mr. X told us on previous occasion that he didn't care to have the TV on while he was trying to converse, but we forgot to turn it off. We had one cocktail, and the TV was still on, but we were also visiting.

Mr. X then said he had come to see US, and he thought it was rude to keep the TV on. A few minutes later he got up and went outside. Mrs. X said he probably wanted to walk around the yard. Then she went to check on him and she returned saying their car was gone and so was he!

Mr. X didn't return, so we ate without him. Later when we took Mrs. X home, she thanked us for a lovely evening.

My husband says if Mr. X calls to apologize, he won't even speak to him.

Abby, this really puzzled me.

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Why? Mr. X told you quite candidly that he was irritated by your TV, but you ignored him. Finally he reached the end of his

Solons Explain Committee Votes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Nixon "allowed the rule of law, the very cement of our civilization, to slip under the boots of arrogance, oppression and abuse," says one of the six House Judiciary Committee Republicans to recommend impeachment.

For that reason, and despite Nixon's significant and lasting contributions to world peace, the decision is one "I will be able to live with for the rest of my life," Rep. William S. Cohen, R-Maine, said Sunday.

Cohen, 33, spoke to a statewide television audience in Maine the day after the committee recommended 27 to 11 that Nixon be impeached for obstruction of justice in the Watergate cover-up.

He was one of a handful of Judiciary Committee members to return home for the short break. The panel was scheduled to resume its consideration of articles of impeachment today.

Six Republicans joined all of the committee's Democrats in voting to recommend impeachment. All those opposed were Republicans.

Those who returned to home districts said they found response from constituents favorable.

"There is overwhelming support in my district for impeachment," said Rep. Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y. Rangel, who kicked off his re-election campaign in Harlem Sunday night, said his mail was running 20 to 1 for removal of Nixon from office.

Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., said she expects her Brooklyn constituents to support her in the difficult decision.

The Maine Sunday Telegram said Cohen's Washington office had received 397 communications from Maine in the 48 hours after the committee opened public discussion on articles of impeachment on Wednesday. The paper said 281 of the communications favored impeachment.

Rep. Joseph J. Maraziti, R-N.J., on the other hand, said he surveyed about 300 persons attending an Elks clam-

Ticket Sales At State Fair Face Block

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Agriculture Director Gene Abercrombie says he will block the sale of state lottery tickets at the Ohio State Fair until a ruling by the attorney general is cleared up.

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown has ruled that the amendment approved by voters creating the lottery supersedes other state laws prohibiting gambling at fairgrounds.

Abercrombie said that the laws forbidding gambling are still in effect since they have not been specifically overridden.

He also said that any fair concessionaire must be licensed by the agriculture director as well as the fair commission. And he said he will refuse to grant licenses to sell lottery tickets until the problem is resolved.

"I am not quarreling with the attorney general," he said, "but I won't issue the licenses unless I am directly ordered to."

A spokesman for Brown said that under the attorney general's ruling, lottery agents may sell tickets, draw prize winners and award prizes at the fair as agreed with the commission.

But Ohio Expositions Commission chairman Victor Lucas said Abercrombie's decision is "good enough for me."

Lucas said although he had complied with the commission's wishes to apply for a license to sell tickets, he "wasn't a bit interested in selling lottery tickets at the state fair."

Lucas said he felt selling the tickets would create problems the commission cannot handle with its present staff.

Abercrombie said he believes the issue is a moral one. Lottery statutes prohibit the sale of tickets to anyone under 18, and Abercrombie said he does not have the manpower to enforce the age limit.

bake in Clinton, N.J., on Sunday and "about 98 per cent were in support of my vote." Maraziti voted against impeachment.

Rep. Charles W. Sandman Jr., R-N.J., who also voted against impeachment, told about 40 staff and supporters in Atlantic City he still maintains there is insufficient evidence of wrongdoing to impeach Nixon.

But Sandman said, "I am not here to defend Richard Nixon but the Constitution of the United States as I understand it."

Sandman predicted the House of Representatives would vote to impeach the President by a slim margin. Maraziti said he couldn't forecast the House vote—"It will definitely be very close either way."

Rep. Wiley Mayne, R-Iowa, who voted against the article of impeachment, said he had not sampled constituent opinion since the committee action.

But in a statement, Mayne declared, "My vote on the first article of impeachment Saturday night was the most difficult I have ever cast. There is no question about what serious crimes have been committed by the President's closest assistants."

"But there is still no clear and convincing evidence to support the charge that he personally planned the Watergate cover-up and obstructed its investigation."

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — John Robert Allen, 42, of suburban Mount Airy, will appear for preliminary hearing Friday in Hamilton County Municipal Court in connection with the fatal shooting of his former real estate employer.

Allen was released under a $16,000 property bond Saturday when he appeared for arraignment in connection with the fatal shooting of Harry Martineau, 55, of suburban Mount Healthy.

Authorities said Martineau's body was found last Thursday on a dirt road in western Hamilton County.

Allen was formerly employed by Martineau as a salesman.

Harsha Reports

BY WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
Sixth District Of Ohio

The day may be coming soon when the public's fears will be eased that elections are unfairly left to the highest bidder, the candidate with the most money himself or from a few wealthy and influential contributors. For a voting public sick and tired of finding out that some campaigns are run on the heinous theory that your money, not your vote, counts, this is certainly encouraging news.

In the next few weeks, the House will begin consideration of a very important campaign reform bill. The legislation, as reported by the House Administration Committee recently, would set spending ceilings on election campaigns for federal office and establish an independent commission to enforce these and other campaign reforms.

I hesitate to outline precisely what the committee bill proposes since several of the most important sections are bound to face serious challenge and change through amendments on the floor. One of those amendments likely to surface is one which I wholeheartedly support. The House bill offers some form of public financing, but only for presidential campaigns. I think this principle should also be applied to a limited and careful extent to Senate and Congressional elections and that more emphasis should be placed on encouraging small contributions.

What my amendment offers is a system of matching payments for small contributions to Congressional campaigns for the purpose of shifting the source of funding from the special interests and large contributors to a vast base of citizen participants. It is not intended to eliminate private money altogether, however. Essentially, the proposal would entitle each candidate to a $50 federal matching payment for each equivalent contribution raised privately.

To prevent abuses of this federal matching system and a raid on the federal Treasury we could not afford, several safeguards also accompany this proposal. First, matching payments from the federal Treasury will be limited to one-third of a candidate's spending ceiling and a candidate would have to raise a "threshold" amount of small contributions equal to 10 per cent of his spending ceiling to qualify for these matching payments. Both of these provisions would help prevent totally subsidized elections which the government simply could not afford and eliminate wasteful spending on frivolous candidates and publicity seekers.

A third and very important stipulation is that this matching payment money can only be spent for certain purposes. The five categories, which are readily accountable and also essential means of communication with the electorate, are: radio and TV, billboards, newspaper advertising, direct mail costs and telephone banks. You can be sure that any abuses of these federal monies or any campaign funds for personal expenses or "dirty tricks" would not be dealt with lightly by the independent supervisory board which would also be created by the election reform bill. One important feature is the federal matching money would come from the fund created by the checkoff procedure on your income tax return.

This proposal of mine has a good deal of support in the Congress on both sides of the aisle. I believe it offers a positive and constructive approach to dealing with the problems of campaign financing. It could open the door to many qualified and deserving candidates who might have otherwise foregone political office because of the heavy expenses entailed in campaigns. It would also make the recipients of these federal campaign funds more responsible to the people they aspire to represent and not the vested money interests dumping huge sums into campaign coffers.

To be sure, this amendment alone will not bring integrity back to the political process, for there will always be those who will find some way to abuse and misuse it. On the other hand, it closes some of the loopholes and provides the electorate a means of reclaiming as their own a most vital part of the American political system.

Once the House passes its campaign financing reform legislation, the House and Senate will have to reconcile the differences expected in their versions of this legislation. In spite of these hurdles — and make no mistake, they are not small ones — many of the weaknesses in our election laws which led us into the miasma of Watergate and other scandals are coming closer and closer to extinction.

Watergate Guard Seeks Steady Job

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Frank Wills, the former security guard who blew the whistle on Watergate, says he hopes to get a steady job soon, although most employers are reluctant to hire him.

"Employers have the idea I'm too hot to hire because of all the limelight I got into," said Wills, who spent the weekend here campaigning for Victor V. James Jr., a candidate for Alameda County sheriff.

"But I'm getting along with a few TV interviews and talks to students who write to me through my attorney," said Wills, 26. "Anyhow, I'm thinking about getting a steady job pretty soon."

Wills was on duty at the Watergate complex in Washington D.C. in June 1972 when he discovered the break-in at Democratic party headquarters and notified police.

Asian Market Top U.S. Food Buyer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Asian market, led by Japan and the Peoples Republic of China, lived up to expectations and topped all regions in buying U.S. farm products last fiscal year, according to the Agriculture Department.

Final figures for farm exports in the year ended June 30 show Asia as a whole bought more than $7.9 billion worth of U.S. farm products, up 74 per cent from less than $4.6 billion purchased in 1972-73.

Thus, as USDA officials predicted some months ago, Asia for the first time moved ahead of Europe as the leading customers of American farmers. Western Europe, including the common market, bought $6.75 billion worth of farm products last fiscal year, up 53 per cent from $4.4 billion in 1972-73.

In all, the department said in a report recapping 1973-74 farm exports, overseas sales totaled a record $21.3 billion. That was a 65 per cent gain from $12.9 billion sold in 1972-73, the previous high.

Although the quantity of farm commodities sold overseas also set records, higher prices accounted for 85 per cent of the dollar gain during the export year.

Further, despite the dominance of Asia and Europe, exports also jumped sharply in other regions. Latin America, for example, purchased more than $2.4 billion worth of U.S. farm commodities, more than double the value of 1972-73. And African countries bought $980 million worth, nearly tripled from a year earlier.

Wheat, flour and other wheat products led all commodities in export value, totaling more than $4.7 billion, compared with $2.4 billion in 1972-73. Feed grains accounted for $4.65 billion, more than doubled from a year earlier, while oilseeds — including soybeans — jumped to more than $5.2 billion from $3.5 billion.

The figures also showed a wide gulf between farm export sales and imports of foreign agricultural products. The imports totaled $9.5 billion last fiscal year against $7.3 billion in 1972-73.

That meant farm exports exceeded imports by $11.8 billion, more than offsetting a $9 billion deficit in non-farm trade.

Majority Want Nixon Impeached

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Fifty-one per cent of the persons responding to a recent survey by the Gallup Poll say President Nixon should be impeached by the House of Representatives.

However, there is a 5 per cent drop from the number approving of impeachment by the House to the number wanting Nixon's removal from office by the Senate, the latest Gallup Poll shows.

The House Judiciary Committee, which on Saturday approved one article of impeachment by a vote of 27-11, returns today to consider more.

The Gallup survey, taken in mid-July of 1,555 adults, showed the public 51 to 30 per cent in favor of the House voting impeachment. Nineteen per cent offered no opinion.

In the survey, 46 per cent responded yes, 38 per cent no and 16 per cent had no opinion to the question, "... Do you think Nixon's actions are serious enough to warrant his being removed from the presidency, or not?"

The public's view on both the House impeachment and Senate removal from office questions has not varied much in the last four surveys, according to the Gallup organization.

License Tag Machinery Lies Idle

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — The Lebanon Correctional Institute's auto tag manufacturing plant is all dressed up with $50,000 worth of new machinery and has no place to go.

Officials at LCI said Monday they have not been informed of the future of the shop since the state announced Friday it will issue validating stickers instead of steel plates in 1975.

Jim Carter, who heads the shop, said the new machinery was installed to coat the planned 1975 tags with a reflecting paint and stamp on safety slogans.

The plant produced only 20 per cent of the 1974 tags because the old machinery had difficulty embossing the plates' slogan, "Seat Belts Fastened?" They tended to buckle, he said.

As a result, about 10.5 million 1974 plates were made by Structo Co. of Freeport, Ill.

Fred A. Vierow, acting Ohio Safety Director, said Friday in Columbus that the state received only one bid for the steel from 52 firms invited to reply. That was from U.S. Steel.

"If we could have gotten the steel, we could have done the job," Carter said. "Now we'll just have to wait and see."

Carter said a normal shift of 150 LCI inmates could produce 35,000 pairs of auto tags per shift with the new equipment.

Governors Study Criticism Of Imports

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Resolutions critical of federal policies on beef, wheat and dairy imports are scheduled for consideration by the Midwest Governors' Conference Wednesday.

Several other proposals deal with energy questions and will be up for discussion following a Wednesday speech by national energy administrator John Sawhill.

The 15-state governors group was to hear several speeches today on the world food crisis, with Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey as panel moderator.

One resolution offered by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey of Wisconsin says dairy farmers are being made "pawns in a misguided attempt to improve America's balance of trade."

Lucey's resolution urges the federal government to require the same standards for imported dairy products that are required of U.S. products.

Gov. J. James Exon of Nebraska has offered a resolution urging limits on the importation of beef and wheat.

Adoption of resolutions and election of officers will be the final items on the conference agenda Wednesday. Gov. William Milliken of Michigan is expected to be named chairman.

One of Milliken's resolutions requests Sawhill to make an investigation of gasoline pricing policies in the Midwest. Milliken contends prices have been "consistently higher" than in other parts of the country.

Another Milliken resolution asks Congress to restore the old format of Daylight Savings Time, from the third Sunday in April to the fourth Sunday in October. Milliken said the present year-round use of daylight time has resulted in an electricity saving of less than 1 per cent.

Other resolutions call for continuing the mandatory fuel allocation plan, opposing railroad abandonments, inclusion of off-reservation Indians in federal programs and construction of a trans-Canada natural gas pipeline.

Under rules of the conference, it takes a three-fourths vote to adopt resolutions.

Road Group Debts Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. William J. Brown said his staff is looking into published reports that the Highway Safety Foundation, Inc., at Mansfield has accrued debts of $5 million to $6 million.

Brown said the foundation, incorporated as a charitable trust in 1968, lists Sammy Davis Jr., Mario Andretti and television personality Monty Hall among its trustees.

"We are looking into the allegations against the foundation in the same way we would respond to a citizen's complaint," the attorney general said. He estimated that the investigation will last several weeks.

The corporation charter said the purpose of the foundation is "to improve the driving abilities of the nation's drivers by assisting in the establishment of non-profit driver training centers."

The foundation, however, has not yet filed its 1973 report with the attorney general's office as required by law, Brown said. According to the attorney general, the corporation has received a second extension, which gives it until Aug. 31 to submit last year's report.

Park Water Under Test; Many Ill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Department of Natural Resources said Blue Rock State Park in Muskingum County will remain open while officials there continue to test the park's water supply for traces of shigellosis bacteria.

Previous laboratory tests of samples from the park's water fountains, lake water, restroom and concessions have been negative according to Mike Drake, department spokesman.

Drake said tests began shortly after the July 4 weekend when 10 cases of the disease were reported. Since then, 32 persons have been reportedly stricken with the disease.

Drake said his office maintains that "the illness has absolutely nothing to do with the park facility."

Ohio Health Director John Ackerman said, however, that health officials are "absolutely convinced there is a connection between the park and the disease."

Investigators from the health department said the first 10 people stricken by the disease might have been infected at the park because all of them had been there over the holiday weekend.

Natural Resources Director William B. Nye said the theory was shattered when six persons who had never been to the park also contracted shigellosis.

Seek To End Differences On Sale Of Lottery Tickets

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Lottery Commission Chairman David Leahy says he hopes commission members and State Agriculture Director Gene Abercrombie can work out any differences there may be over sale of lottery tickets at the state fair.

Abercrombie has been reported as saying he'll ban the sale of lottery tickets at the fair.

But the commission says it will go ahead with plans to license fair concessionaires as ticket agents. Commission members, who met here Monday, said they will go by a state attorney general's ruling that legislation creating the lottery supercedes previous laws banning lotteries.

Leahy said all he knows about Abercrombie's position "is what we've read in the newspapers." He said it was possible "Abercrombie may prevent us. But we'll ask him to huddle with us to make it work well."

Perk Backs Act Against Abortions

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk said he would endorse a constitutional amendment to prevent abortions.

The Republican candidate for U.S. Senate said here Monday that "No one has the right to kill," adding that woman should not have control of her body if abortion is involved.

"I understand that in perhaps one in a million cases would an abortion be necessary to save the mother's life," he told a news conference.

Perk said his position was opposite that of his opponent, former astronaut John Glenn, a Democrat.

Glenn, however, issued a statement saying "in part, I'm personally opposed to abortion...From a legislative point of view I believe we must look to the necessity to protect unborn children."

Perk refused comment on the possible impeachment of President Nixon.

"Since I would most likely be sitting in as a juror, if elected, it would be wrong to make the decision in advance," Perk said.

Abercrombie has been quoted as saying he would not license any concessionaire to sell lottery tickets until the problem is resolved to his satisfaction.

The commissioners said Lottery Director John Kirkland Jr. should point out to Abercrombie that the fair would profit from sale of lottery tickets.

The commission was told its rolling lottery rig, called the Showmobile, will cost $20,000 more than originally estimated.

Art Young, president of Art Forms, Inc. of Cleveland, said the cost now is estimated at $91,000. Young said there was no time to draw plans for the hurried estimate given the commission originally to get a vehicle in operation in time for the first drawing Aug. 12.

He said the original estimate failed to take into account such items as numbered balls for the drawings. The balls only cost 37 cents, Young said, but it costs more than $2 to number each one.

Padres Edge Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds slumped back to 4½ games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers in the race for the National League west title and Reds Manager George "Sparky" Anderson took it philosophically.

"Well," said Anderson after the 3-2 loss Monday night to the lowly San Diego Padres, "I had a feeling this wasn't gonna be our night."

"Things weren't looking good because we were hitting balls right at people all night."

The Reds left eight runners stranded while pounding winner Bill Greif, 6-11, for ten hits and two walks.

Their only chance came in a two-run sixth inning, but pinch hitters Terry Crowley and Cesar Geronimo, now hitting .321 with three hits for the night, both popped up.

"We looked at Greif critically at that point," said Padres Manager John McNamara, adding, "We felt if we're going to have a future we have to give the ball to these guys and let them go out and pitch. He got stronger then."

John Grubb hit his sixth homer of the year off Clay Kirby, 7-6, in the first inning and Nate Colbert hit his tenth with one on in the fourth for the margin.

"Seeing your average on the scoreboard is not something you like," said Colbert, who was hitting .199 when he came up. "But at the end of the season it will be higher than that."

"We're a much improved club over earlier in the season," said McNamara, "We're going to be a factor in this division race."

The Padres have a peculiar record this season, McNamara said. They have a 28-23 winning record against Eastern Division teams, but in the West it is 15-36 for the cellar dwellers.

"We want to play the Dodgers well. They kind of humiliated us at the start of the season." The Dodgers beat the Padres seven for seven.

The Houston Astros arrive at Cincinnati tonight for a two-game series with the Reds before Cincinnati starts a seven-game stint on the West Coast, three of them with Los Angeles.

The energy crisis hasn't bothered Lou Brock. He never runs out of gas, it seems.

Brock continued his explosive base-stealing pace Monday while helping the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Chicago Cubs 11-2.

"Winning games is important, not setting records," Brock noted after stealing his 65th base of the season and 700th of his career. "But when the competition is tight and the challenge is there, then you find yourself doing things you didn't think were possible."

Brock, zeroing in on Maury Wills' fabulous single-season record of 104, also moved up on the all-time list into some exclusive company. Only four other players in baseball history have stolen 700 or more bases—Ty Cobb (892); Eddie Collins (743); Max Carey (738) and Honus Wagner (701).

In the other National League games, the New York Mets nipped the Montreal Expos 4-3; the Los Angeles Dodgers hammered the Atlanta Braves 10-2; the Philadelphia Phillies routed the Pittsburgh Pirates 13-1; the San Diego Padres stopped the Cincinnati Reds 3-2 and the San Francisco Giants trimmed the Houston Astros 7-2.

Brock also singled twice and scored twice while both Ken Reitz and Joe Torre homered for the Cards.

Mets 4, Expos 3
John Milner belted a two-run homer in the eighth inning, powering New York over Montreal for the Mets' fourth straight win.

Steve Rogers, 10-13, took a three-hitter and a 3-2 lead into the eighth, but Jerry Grote singled and Milner hit his 15th homer of the baseball season, a blast over the right-center field fence. Jack Aker, 2-2, the Mets' third pitcher, got the victory.

Dodgers 10, Braves 2

Jim Wynn knocked in four runs, including two on his 24th home run of the baseball season, helping Los Angeles snap a three-game losing streak with an easy triumph over Atlanta.

Phillies 13, Pirates 1

Mike Schmidt hit a pair of two-run homers and Steve Carlton pitched a two-hitter for his 13th victory of the season as Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh.

Schmidt hit his 21st homer in the first and No. 22 in the sixth.

Bosox Clip Yankees Again

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

They used to ban books in Boston. Now they ban Yankee victories.

The New Yorkers' futility streak in Fenway Park was made one loss more futile Monday night when the Red Sox clipped them 2-1 in 11 innings. That makes 11 straight losses in Boston, and 20 in their last 21 games there. They last won there last year.

Hall Of Fame Chief Looks After 'Boys'

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Shortly after he was a pallbearer in Dizzy Dean's funeral, Ken Smith dropped a birthday card in the mail to Casey Stengel, who is 84 today.

"Old Diz" was never a close friend of Smith's, nor is Stengel. But Ken Smith is director of the National Baseball Hall of Fame and part of his job is "looking after our boys," from the time they're voted into the Hall.

"I've always felt completely at home with the players. I've put my whole life into it," said Smith, 72, who was a New York sports writer 38 years before joining the Hall in 1964.

In two weeks, Smith will bring six more former baseball greats into the hall, including two of Stengel's New York Yankee stars, Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford. Others to be inducted into the Hall of Fame Aug. 12 are old-timers Samuel Thompson of the Philadelphia Phillies and James Bottomley of the St. Louis Cardinals, both deceased; John (Jocko) Conlan, a veteran National League umpire; and James "Cool Papa" Bell, who played for a St. Louis team in the Negro

If the Yankees are starting to believe in hexes, they got some more evidence Monday night. The Red Sox managed only three hits and won the game in the 11th without a hit.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Baltimore Orioles trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 6-2; the Detroit Tigers clubbed the Cleveland Indians 8-2; the Texas Rangers punished the Kansas City Royals 10-1, and the Oakland A's outscored the Chicago White Sox 11-9.

Lefty Sam McDowell held the Red Sox hitless through five innings and scoreless through 7 2-3 innings, until Dwight Evans slugged a tying homer high into the left-field screen. The score stayed 1-1 until the 11th, when a walk, wild throw by New York reliever Sparky Lyle on a sacrifice bunt and another walk loaded the bases and a sacrifice fly by Terry Hughes brought in the winning run.

Tigers 8, Indians 2

Four Detroit batters sent first-inning homers into the stands, causing any late arrivals to miss a major league record.

Never before had a team hit four homers in the first inning, although four teams have hit five home runs in a single inning.

Al Kaline, Bill Freehan and Mickey Stanley belted consecutive homers off Fritz Peterson, and two batters later, Ed Brinkman connected off Steve Kline. The barrage was more than enough for Mickey Lolich, who scattered six hits.

Rangers 10, Royals 1

Ferguson Jenkins pitched the top of the fifth inning as if his 8-1 lead was in jeopardy. And it was.

His Ranger teammates had made it 8-1 before rain delayed the game for one hour and 36 minutes—three outs short of an official Texas victory. When the rains stopped, Jenkins started fast, striking out three straight Royals on 12 total pitches. With the game official, he then breezed to his 14th victory in 23 decisions. He allowed six hits.

Orioles 6, Brewers 2

Paul Blair and Don Baylor drilled run-scoring hits to spark a four-run Baltimore rally that gave Ross Grimsley his seventh victory in his last eight decisions.

A's 11, White Sox 9

Oakland overcame four of its own errors in one inning and two Chicago leads to beat the White Sox.

Down 4-1 after three innings and 5-4 after six, the A's bounced back with four runs in the seventh and three more in the eighth.

Sparky Thinks Pitching Staff Has Stuff To Beat Dodgers

CINCINNATI, (AP)—Cincinnati Reds Manager George "Sparky" Anderson thinks his pitching staff should be able to stay in contention with Los Angeles for the title in the National League west despite injuries.

"If you talk about losing pitching time," Anderson said Monday, "I think we've lost more than Los Angeles. But right now we have the best pitching we've ever had."

Anderson said the loss of pitchers Tommy John and Jim Brewer to the Los Angeles Dodgers is not the reason they have lost three of their last five games.

The Reds are 3½ games behind Los Angeles, leaders of the National League West.

Cincinnati had lost two early-season starters, righthanders Roger Nelson and Gary Nolan, both to shoulder injuries.

Nolan, who underwent surgery to remove calcium deposits from his shoulder, went to the Reds' American Association farm club at Indianapolis Monday to begin workouts, but Anderson said he doubts he will return to the Reds this season.

Anderson said he doesn't know when Nelson will be back.

Going into the three-day All-Star break, Anderson said he was afraid the rest would destroy the momentum the team had going.

"We've been winning all along," Anderson said, "and I thought the break might disrupt things."

He said for the Reds to pass the Dodgers "we're going to have to go like heck" for the rest of the season.

"Right now I'd prefer if we were 3½ games in front instead of 3½ behind."

"I'm just a day-by-day manager and just wait to see how things go. We'll keep going until the last game if we need to."

The closest the Reds had been to Los Angeles was four games behind on April 27. The Dodgers then collected what seemed at the time to be an insurmountable lead, which Cincinnati whittled away through their wins and L.A.'s losses.

"They're funny guys," Anderson said of his team. "Since spring training they've felt all along that they were going to go all the way this year and haven't given up hope."

Ohio Youth Dies On Hike

BUENA VISTA, Colo. (AP) — Timothy Richard Carlson, 17, of Westlake, Ohio, collapsed and died Monday while hiking at the 14,000-foot elevation on Mt. Belford near here, sheriff's officers said.

Carlson was hiking with four instructors and three other campers from a guest ranch five miles north of this central Colorado community when he collapsed about 4 p.m.

One of the instructors said the youth was given mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and chest massage for about an hour, while four of the party made their way to Granite for assistance.

A helicopter from Ft. Carson military base reached the youth about 8:30 p.m. A medical team aboard the craft pronounced him dead.

Carlson had arrived at the ranch Friday for a five-day stay.

The cause of death has not been determined.

Tampa University plays all 11 football games at night this season. Seven are at home and one is in Orlando, Fla.

NFL Player Strike At Critical Stage

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

The National Football League players' strike entered a critical stage today with the resumption of talks and rank-and-file criticism of the players association's negotiating tactics.

Effort to settle the 30-day-old strike were scheduled to resume this afternoon in Washington, D.C., under supervision of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service's chief, W.J. Userv.

Userv met Monday with representatives of the NFL Players Association and planned to talk with the NFL Management Council, bargaining agent for the owners, today before resuming negotiations.

Userv said he hoped now that "we can get both sides down to hard, good-faith bargaining. That is what we desire and are working for and we hope an agreement can be consummated."

Meanwhile in Chicago, offensive tackle Bob Asher said "it's getting obvious we've lost the strike. The owners aren't budging."

"I feel Ed Garvey (the players association's executive director) is blowing it. He came into this thing with such hardnosed tactics, using freedom as the theme, that the good points of our stand have been disguised."

Asher said "... by ignoring the public with the 'No Freedom, No Football' approach, probably 80 per cent of the public is against us."

Some hope for compromise, however, was seen Monday in a statement issued under NFLPA President Bill Curry's name.

"We sincerely believe that, at this time, an agreement can be reached," the statement said.

In the training camps, the flock of defections from the strike continued, most notably in Latrobe, Pa., where seven veterans, led by quarterback Joe Gilliam, joined the Pittsburgh Steelers' camp.

Another notable defection was that of quarterback Greg Landry, who joined Detroit's Bloomfield Hills, Mich., camp where the death of Coach Don McCafferty was thought to have ended the solidarity of the Lions' strike.

The Lions announced Monday that assistant coach Rick Forzano would become the interim successor to McCafferty.

Jerry Tagge of the Green Bay Packers and Craig Morton of the Dallas Cowboys joined Gilliam and Landry as quarterbacks abandoning the strike.

Morton said his decision to join practice was not an attempt to take the starting quarterback job from Roger Staubach.

Pat Matson, player representative for the Cincinnati Bengals, said he felt his team could be considered in disfavor by other teams because of the 25 veterans now in camp at Wilmington, Ohio.

"I think there's a good possibility the Bengals are regarded as scabs," Matson said.

Two nonstarting Minnesota Viking veterans reported to summer training camp, while four Rams nonstarters turned up at the Rams' camp at Fullerton, Calif., bringing to 11 the veterans, all non-starters last year, in that camp.

Two more Cleveland Browns veterans reported, bringing the number in that camp to 17. Atlanta wide receiver Preston Riley Monday became the 12th veteran Falcon to report. At least six other teams had one veteran each report Monday.

Ford Urges Relaxation Of Emissions

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Ford Motor Co. says it can achieve a 25 per cent gasoline savings with a new stratified charge engine, but can't build it unless future pollution rules are relaxed.

Ford President Lee Iacocca said today the firm is "more optimistic than ever" about the stratified charge engines, which spread combustion over a longer period of time to obtain a more efficient burn.

"These engines have two rather important characteristics: They can meet current emission standards, and they can deliver a fuel-economy improvement of up to 25 per cent, compared with current engines," he said.

The experimental engines, however, cannot be tuned to meet the scheduled 1978 limits on emissions of nitrogen oxide exhausts, Iacocca said in remarks prepared for the 1975 Lincoln-Mercury preview.

"The experts contend that the present standard is too stringent, must be changed, and will be changed, but we can't spend hundreds of millions of dollars to build a product that couldn't be sold under existing law," Iacocca said.

Opening the first model preview for 1975, Iacocca also called on Congress to continue the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit past its automatic expiration next June.

"Traffic deaths have declined 25 per cent since its inception," he said. "Beyond that, it has reduced fuel consumption, which in turn has saved people money...."

Baseball Playoffs Revisions Studied

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Major league baseball club owners are considering a proposal that would revise and enlarge the system of league championships playoffs, according to a report in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The proposal would add the second place team in each of the four divisions so that eight clubs, instead of the present four, would be included in the post-season play.

New York City has been the scene of 127 World Series games. Chicago and St. Louis rank next with 40 games each.

By FRANCIS DRAKE

FOR WEDNESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Personal relationships under something of a cloud. Stress diplomacy. A high-handed attitude will only make you unpopular.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): You should receive information which clarifies a financial situation. It may not be all you hoped for, but at least it will help you to proceed in a profitable manner.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Don't let rumors and idle speculation cause you to become anxious and (or) indecisive. Carry out your plans as scheduled. Things should turn out well.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): A fine day for advancement along lines important to you. Don't veer off on tangents, however, or good effort will be wasted.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): A good period for finalizing agreements. Some unusual background activity will provide the spark that hurries matters through more quickly than expected.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Keep plans flexible; changing situations could make revision necessary. On the personal side: Romance and travel highly favored.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Forethought must be day's watchword. Make no important decisions and sign no agreements without careful deliberation. Some misleading influences.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): By going along with your associates, you can further your own plans as well. It's a day when teamwork will pay satisfying dividends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): How you relate to others will be especially important now. Be particularly alert in communication with those who are important to your interests.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): A time for definitely clarifying your objectives. Get together with those who share your interests and, between you, work out a clear and concise program of action.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Some restrictions where personal relationships are concerned. In mid-morning, especially, avoid discussions which could upset associates.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You may have to make some concessions in a family matter, but the end results will be worthwhile. Expect some good news in the p.m.

YOU BORN TODAY are an extremely independent individual, self-reliant and unbelievably courageous in the face of obstacles or adversity. You are pragmatic and usually acquire money easily — but spend it just as easily. Your versatility enables you to succeed at almost any field of your choosing, but you could probably reach your highest levels of attainment in the field of law which, in your case, almost inevitably, would lead to politics, statesmanship or the diplomatic world. You are also suited to other occupations which brings you into contact with the public such as salesmanship, public relations or the theater. No matter what career you elect to follow, however, do take up one of the arts, such as music or painting, as an avocation. Either would provide a highly satisfying outlet for your emotions. Birthdate: John Ericsson, Swed. naval engineer; Geraldine Chaplin, actress, (daughter of Charles).

Dennis Remembers

LONDON (AP) — Dennis Flanders is 45 and a member of the Camelford, Cornwall, Council, but he remembers his early days.

He wants a special board put up in a local park so that young lovers can carve messages on it.

He put the idea forward when the Camelford Council was considering putting wire mesh over a park shelter to protect it from carvers.

"We were all young once and we probably all did a bit of carving of our initials," Flanders said. "We should not go out of our way to stop something which is virtually a tradition."

Airbourne Humor

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—The Star reported that a South African Airways pilot made this announcement to his passengers: "I have some good news and some bad news. First the bad news. Cape Town's airport is fogbound. We will have to turn back to Jan Smuts Airport in Johannesburg. Now for the good news. We are five minutes ahead of schedule."

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — The White House denied in June reports President Nixon had rejected a proposed long-range financing bill for public broadcasting. But a key advisor who sent him the bill says Nixon did turn it down, if only temporarily.

He's Dr. Clay T. Whitehead, who was instrumental in persuading Nixon, through Gen. Alexander Haig Jr., the President's top aide, to send the measure intact to Congress this month.

But Whitehead, chief of the White Office of Telecommunications Policy nearly four years, admits he was startled when he learned of Nixon's initial decision.

He said it consisted only of "a short notification that he had not approved the bill. It didn't make any sense in view of the previous involvement he's had in the public broadcasting matter."

He referred to administration efforts to decentralize public broadcasting and emphasize more of a "grass-roots" approach. The bill, aimed at insulating public broadcasters from undue government pressure and the vagaries of annual funding, would provide up to $440 million over a five-year period, but on a matching basis of $1 for every $2.50 the broadcasters raised from nonfederal sources.

Whitehead said its initial rejection was puzzling because it previously had support from Nixon, who "knew what we were doing, why we were doing it and that public broadcasting had changed markedly....

"The bill we were able to work out with them (public broadcasters) reflected a lot of his concerns and would have reduced the danger that this could turn into a government-funded television network."

He said it made certain that local stations had a strong role in national public broadcasting and that it generally "was very consistent with the 'New Federalism' approach Mr. Nixon has advocated for so many years."

Whitehead, who said Nixon's initial decision came without elaboration, said he argued the case for the bill with Haig, but not with the President personally.

He said he later received a White House memo that said, "The President has approved your proposal." He said it also was without elaboration, but that he hadn't tried to learn the whys of the reversal.

He said that now that White House debate on the bill has ended, he thinks the measure stands a good chance of passage, even though it has unique provisions Congress rarely sees in a financing bill. It combines both authorization for spending and appropriation of the funds in the same document, he said. The two steps usually are voted on separately by the Congress.

Seek To Save Old Schoolhouse

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—The South Central Ohio Preservation Society is attempting to save a 73-year-old elementary school from demolition.

Franklin Conway, head of the society, said his group has contacted the Chillicothe Board of Education about trying to save the former Chillicothe high school.

Nicholas Alexander, superintendent of schools, said demolition of the building has been planned since voters approved a $4.9 million bond issue for construction and renovation of school buildings two years ago.

He said that though the building is structurally sound, there is little hope for a change in plans.

Congressmen Find Vote Easier

WASHINGTON (AP) — The words were different. The mood was different. The sense of history had changed. But the result was the same. The House Judiciary Committee once more accused Richard Nixon of failing the nation's trust.

On Saturday, the strain showed as a committee of the nation's representatives voted to recommend the ouster of a President for only the second time in the annals of the republic.

It was bitter medicine, even for those who fought hardest to bring the charges that added up to obstruction of justice by the nation's highest elected official.

Although the routine was the same on Monday—an exhausting, often eloquent and sometimes bitterly resigned debate—there was little of the drama, none of the tears.

One more congressman, Republican Robert McClory of Illinois, joined the impeachment forces to make it 28-10. Even that was no surprise. He'd said all along he felt the President had not carried out the laws faithfully.

Article II charges abuse of power. One Democrat, Rep. Walter Flowers of Alabama, called it an offense even more serious than obstruction of justice.

Another Southerner, Rep. James R. Mann, D-S.C., had cried when he voted for the first article.

Now, speaking of the second, he said softly:

"If there be no accountability, another President can see fit to do as he chooses and the next time there may be no watchman in the night."

On Saturday there had been suspense, even with a certain outcome. On Monday some congressmen spoke of victory.

"Most Americans recognize what those words really meant and who they were directed at," said Rep. Charles B. Rangel, a Harlem Democrat. The Article II vote, he hoped, "will restore some of the original meaning," and added:

Amanda Band Sets Rehearsal

The Amanda-Clearcreek High School and Stage Bands will begin summer practice 6:30-8:30 p.m. Aug. 5, 6 and 8 in the school band room.

The junior high band will practice 6:30-8 p.m. Aug. 2, 7 and 9 with the cadet band meeting 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. Aug. 6 and 9.

All groups will practice in the high school band room with the schedule for the rest of the month to be given at the practices.

Junior High Majorette tryouts are set for 1 p.m. Aug. 5 and are open to any interested band member.

"We have established some law and order to the presidency of the United States ... the President of the United States did not only disregard the law, but feared the law ... I'm satisfied he will have a fair hearing in the House of Representatives and a fair trial in the Senate to prove that the system can work. Indeed, it will be a victory of law and order."

Even though they had lost the big fight on the first article, there was no letting down by the President's supporters on the committee, all Republicans.

Driver Cited In Accident

Susan Rogers Stella, 29, Columbus, was cited for reckless operation by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy James Deal when she was involved in a single-car accident 4:23 a.m. Tuesday.

According to the report, Ms. Stella failed to negotiate a curve going off the right berm.

The auto flipped over onto its top going through a fence.

Ms. Stella was treated and released at Berger Hospital for abrasions to the face and legs.

Carroll O'Connor Returns To Work

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carroll O'Connor will return to his role as Archie Bunker in CBS' "All in the Family" today, CBS said.

O'Connor missed the first two shows for next season because of a contract dispute with the show's owner, Tandem Productions. He is to deliver a one-line tag at the end of tonight's taping and should appear full time in the fourth show for the season, a spokesman for the actor said.

O'Connor had filed suit against Tandem in June, asking Los Angeles Superior Court to declare whether he had a valid contract and seeking what he claimed was back salary due him.

Neither CBS nor O'Connor would say how the dispute was resolved.
